REBOOT: Computer Support Program for Survivors

The Rising Angels REBOOT program provides survivors of human trafficking with the technology they need to pursue education, build skills, and rebuild their lives.

About REBOOT

Eligible survivors who are on the road to recovery and have been accepted into a designated Canadian designated educational institution or a member school of the National Association of Career Colleges to pursue a trade or diploma may be referred to the REBOOT Program. Through the program, approved applicants can receive a laptop, printer, carry bag and accessories to help reduce the financial barriers to continuing their education.

Applications must be submitted by a registered charity that is providing ongoing support to the survivor. The referring organization plays an important role in confirming eligibility and assisting with the application process.

A decision will be advised within 15 (fifteen) days of receipt of the application.
